To whom it may concern,

the settlement is letting them off the hook too easily, I am supporting the nine states who against the settlement and move forward to the case.

Microsoft, brought Bungie Software last year, because they want exclusive games for their own Xbox gaming platform.

They spend extra money in front of companies and make sure they have exclusive for their own system. Bungie announced they are working on the game, "Halo", first on Macworld Expo Summer of 1999 for both Mac and PC.

As a mac user, I want that game, now I have to wait god knows when before it comes out for the mac because of Microsoft.

Sure, they (Microsoft) have the money, and they don't care about others.

Yours,

Talos
